TIMELY TOPICS

THE REGINA STORM AND AFTER

We have generally looked upon fire and water as being the two elements most to be dreaded, but on Sunday, the last day of lovely June, almost in the middle of a broiling hot day, there came hurling, sweeping, roaring, such a cyclone of wind that neither Regina nor any other part of the west had ever experienced before. According to eyewitnesses a huge black cloud was seen circling in the air only a few moments before, and ere the people had arrived at what they hoped was a safe spot a wind possessing, of course, superhuman force began tearing down structures which took months to build. Neither was it content to wipe off the earth puny shacks, but it deliberately, caught hold of stately dwellings, twisted and turned them, and then threw them in broken masses at a distance.

Freight cars on the siding, ponderous though they were, must needs move when that wind came along. Grain elevators, built solid for strength, were turned over like dolls houses in the hand of a child.

Up to time of writing 30 unfortunate human beings were caught by this monster, and one death sudden but all too sure in as many different ways, while scores of others were maimed and otherwise injured also in various ways. Fantastic stories, hard to believe, are told of escapes from death, but one can believe almost anything after knowing that huge stone and brick buildings, towers, etc., were torn to pieces by the storm.

Wind, too, is a good servant. It will assist a vessel across an ocean homeward, or it will slowly and surely pump water for your cattle, thus saving hours of labor. But when it goes on the rampage as it did at Regina last week, it plays sad havoc.

We sympathize with the friends of the dead, we wish speedy recovery to those who were injured. We hope that liberal-minded people of means will rally to the help of those who have lost property.

Regina will build again. Already we learn that 1500 carpenters and about fifty tinsmiths are repairing the havoc wrought. Some will learn the lesson of the uncertainty of life and will pay heed to the injunction, "Be ye also ready."

AIR CONQUERORS

Mr. Vanniman, an American, one of the crew of the airship which essayed to cross the Atlantic last year unsuccessfully, has since been busy building another air craft, and the other day piloted it out of its moorings into clear air. All seemed to be going well for a little while, and spectators cheered, when suddenly it appeared as though an explosion of some kind had happened and the envelope buckled up. Directly after the five men who composed the crew were seen falling headlong through the thousand feet of space toward the Atlantic, over which they had sailed, thus meeting their death. It seems as though the air is not so easy to conquer, although much has been accomplished toward that direction. We cannot but admire the courage of Mr. Vanniman and his crew, although we bemoan the loss of life. Indeed the loss of life among air conquerors is becoming appallingly great. Yet such is the ambition of mankind that men will take their lives in their hands and fly into the air just to please the crowd looking on. In years to come there is no doubt but that it will be as safe to travel in the air as on land.

THE "MANLY ART" CHAMPIONS?

Again in spite of so much popular outcry against such exhibitions, a prize fight between Jack Johnson and a white man has come off. Of course it was attended by thousands who either had heavy bets on either of the men, or else were lured there by the prospect of seeing a so called fight and bloodshed. Both these allurements pander to the lowest and basest desires of men, and the fact that such fights are allowed is deplorable.

On the same day the so called "light weight champions" were meeting each other, and after 15 rounds both men were helpless on the floor of the ring, and it is said that the umpire gave a wrong decision. Surely, presently men—or at any rate all who are worthy of the name—will declare that these debating fights shall cease. Let men expend their energies upon something worth while; and ban such affairs from the realm of civilization.

SUNDAY TRADING AGAIN

Some tradesmen and shopkeepers of the lower order are making a great effort to successfully ignore the working of the Alberta Lord's Day Act. Thirty-two cases are up before the justices in Calgary alone. Edmonton, too, has a number who are summoned to appear. We heartily approve of the action of the Attorney General in pursuing those who are trying to undermine the stability of the Christian Sabbath in Alberta. We admire also the devotion to duty of Inspector Forster. Let it only be understood that the Province will not stand for these high moral laws being broken by anyone, and let those who flagrantly break them be heavily fined, and if they continue let imprisonment follow, and we shall preserve Alberta as a Province fit to live in.

No part of Southern Alberta has as yet suffered much from hail. This is the only emergency which could do serious damage to the crops this year. There is moisture enough now in the soil to bring a crop of fall and spring wheat without any additional moisture before harvest time, and all the country needs as a whole is a shower or two sometime within the next month to ensure a splendid yield of all spring grain. Nineteen hundred and twelve will be record year in the production of flax and barley, and provision will be made in the elevators for receiving this grain and handling it. Prospects are that the flax crop will be the best that Alberta has ever produced, and from the prices which it is anticipated will be offered there will be a lot of money made from the growing of this grain.

The Supreme Court, sitting en banc, dismissed the appeal of ex-convict Martin, of the C.P.R., who was sentenced to 18 months in Lethbridge jail for "knocking down" fares.

The picnic at Mrs. Kellar's last Thursday was a decided success, there being about 100 present. Everybody enjoyed themselves. A few of the young people had a dance in the evening.

From reports received the crops in this district are fully three weeks ahead of last year. Harvest operations it is expected, will commence about the middle of next month. The last rains have a wonderful difference to the appearance of the crops.

A good rain drenched the land again on Saturday night, Sunday and Monday, and Southern Alberta's crop is assured. The warm weather of last week brought along a wonderful growth. Fall wheat is well headed out, spring wheat is heading, barley, oats and flax are in the pink of condition, and the season is fully three weeks ahead of this date last year.

One of our young men who lives not far from town believes in the old adage, "See a pin and pick it up, and all day long you will have luck." The other day he saw a pin in the street. He stooped down to pick it up and his hat fell in the mud; his glasses fell on a stone and were smashed; his braces gave way behind; he burst the buttonhole on the back of his collar, and apoplexy nearly claimed him for his own. But—he got the pin.

FLIES

Now the flies begin their "buzz" by the gross and by the dozen and make our lives a burden with gnuets and their drills; they are riding on the breezes and they scatter more diseases than the doc can ever master with his sugar-coated pills. Day by day the housefly hordes for our red and white corpses, shooting venom in our systems with his hypodermic gun; busting in all human regions who would otherwise keep living in this world of work and fun. Flies are vile and vulgar creatures; they have no redeeming features; they drive all the world to anger as they wield their deadly tools; and they keep us mad and fretting till we often are forgetting all the splendid moral lessons that we learned in Sunday schools. When the flies have all been driven from this land the joy of living (the scientists assure us) is increased a hundred fold; let us therefore rise and swat 'em, knock 'em endways, top and bottom, till they weary of their labors and their sticky feet are cold. Swat 'em with our swatters swatty, though the world may say we're dotty, kill them off with guns and poison, tie some tinware to their tails; tie them to the stake with tethers, give them coats of tar and feathers; when we find them in our village let us ride them out on rails.

—Uncle Walt.

Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious diseases. Kill every fly that strays into the sickroom. His body is covered with disease germs.

Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate on or near your premises.

Screen all food and insist that your grocer, butcher, baker and every one from whom you buy foodstuffs does the same.

Don't buy foodstuffs where flies are tolerated.

Don't eat where flies have access to food.

Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the cans cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime.

Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened or sprinkled with lime, oil or other cheap preparations, as 98 per cent of the flies come from stable manure and 2 cent. from garbage and other filth.

Keep the streets and alleys clean.

Four kerosene into the drains. Burn pyrethrum powder in the house to kill the flies, or use a mixture of formaldehyde and water, one spoonful to a quart of water. This exposed in the room will kill all the flies.

Burn or bury all table refuse.

Screen all windows and doors especially in the kitchen and dining room.

The "Hustler" at Calgary Fair

The crowd assembled at the Calgary Industrial Exposition on Dominion Day this year surpassed any that have assembled in past years by 10,000, there having been about 40,000 people on the grounds. All available space for exhibits in the building was made use of, and some exhibits were placed outside in tents. The largest display of tractors and large farming machinery ever displayed in this province was on the grounds. The stock as usual was exceptionally good, and some as good specimens as can be shown on the North American continent.

The racing was on a very heavy track and time was slow compared to what it would have been under ideal track conditions. The Hotelkeepers' Stake for $3000, the largest purse ever raced for in Canada, was won by Sirius Pointer, owned and driven by Lou Childs, Spokane. Time 2:26. Fifteen horses faced the starter in this race, and they were as good an aggregation as ever assembled on a western track.

The 2:30 pace had eight starters, stake $1000, and was won by Lady Arrod, owned and driven by J. I. Domper, Edmonton. 2:27. The usual amount of hawkers, vendors of fakes, fake shows, and Midway raffle greatly exceeded all previous seasons.

CHANGES IN HOMESTEAD ACT

Among other recent changes in the homestead regulations the following will be much appreciated by the homesteader, and should make it much easier for a man to prove up his claim:

Hitherto residence was counted in two ways:

1. From the date of entry.
2. From the date of commencement of residence.
3. For three periods of six consecutive months within three years.

By the new regulation the officials are permitted to change the commencement dates so that a man could, for instance, reside on the homestead in April, May, June and July.

He might be short of money and have to leave for a couple of months. In the past, if he left the four months would not count. Now, he can return and put in November and December, and the officials can make the count so that the time put in would count, providing there was no overlapping. The change should prove helpful, for in the past many a man has lost three or four months owing to his being absolutely compelled to leave to earn money to live on.
